Dead parents,

It took me a little time to write down these thoughts down for you to set up a common roadmap concerning the e-learing approach. It will surely be the most appropriate one to reduce the distances in such a difficult moment.

I shared my opinions with some of you and you showed me your concern about the stop of the lessons, the sense of your children's disorientation, the difficult compromise between your job duties and the closure of schools .

I called upon the teachers about the several possibilities the digital world is offering now and some limits about the feasibility of virtual classes have emerged. So I decided that an efficient way to reduce the distances would be the use of the most common tool for everyone: the online register.

It's also useful because it's the easiest one for a ll the classes to avoid disparities.

The use of virtual classes will stay on for those who already used it before this crisis and an experimental step of distance learning will be created.

Here are our guidelines to help students and families. You, dear parents, have a very importanti task: that of guiding and guarding your son's path to enhance this sense of responsibility.

The homework will be accessible through the personal account of Classeviva register.

In the Agenda section will be written down the homework for the following days. The homework will be checked out when the lessons will start again but it's important to follow the deadlines offered by the calendar.

The section Didattica is active to share files ,links or texts where students can download their teachers lessons. We also have the GSUITE teaching framework where teachers could take advantage of many apps like Classroom,Google Hangout and Google Meet to share good practises, teaching materials,to organise webinars and even conference calls. Google Forms is also useful to create testa and online checks.

If you have any other or additional requests, please write to the teachers:
